Mayor Morrison Reviews Methods Adopted to Combat Flu Epidemic

Financial Statement Included Showing Amount and Distribution of Expenditure Involved.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Will you kindly allow me space in the "Bulletin" to give the people of Coleman and vicinity a statement on the recent epidemic of Spanish Influenza, which has now disappeared from our midst, and which we hope will not return.

Anticipating a call from this unwelcome visitor, the Town Council appointed a Board of Health whose chief duty was to do everything possible to fight the disease should it make its appearance here. The Board did not have to wait very long as a couple of days after its appointment several cases were reported, and in less than one week it had spread to such an extent that the opening of an isolation hospital became necessary, and the Public School was taken over for the purpose. All meetings were prohibited, and special constables were sworn in to enforce that regulation as well as mask regulation. We are glad to state here that the people of this town fully realized the seriousness of the matter, and consequently very little opposition was met with by the officers enforcing the regulations.

We also wish to thank those who volunteered to do this arduous and unpleasant and dangerous work, mentioning particularly the staff of the Coleman Public School, officers of the Red Cross Society, and the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Barnes was in charge of the Hospital and with the assistance of Nurse Mackenzie and the almost constant attendance of Drs. Ross and Olivier, I have no hesitation in stating that our hospital was run as efficiently as any similar institution in the country. To the doctors, nurses and the assistant nurses we owe a debt of gratitude, as there is no doubt that their skill and care saved many lives.

Seventy-four cases were admitted into the hospital of which six died while there, making the comparison with other towns very favorable.

All this could not be done without incurring heavy liabilities and a statement of same is herewith submitted.

SAVING OF LABOR ON THE FARM UNDER WAR TIME CONDITIONS

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANNING THE WORK AHEAD

Proper Rotation of Crops, Performing the Work of the Farm at Definite Periods, and Cultivating a Spirit of Co-operation in the Neighborhood, Will Help Solve the Problem

Economy of labor may be practised all the year round on the farm, for even in winter there is much repair work that can be done to advantage. The problem of fitting in the different kinds of work on the farm at any time is thoroughly discussed in a circular issued from the University of Illinois. A summary of the circular is as follows:

The problem of fitting in the war is that the land already overworked must produce more, with less and poorer quality of help. Hence we must seek the solution of the problem from the following sources of labor throughout the growing season by means of a good rotation of crops.

The equipping of every farm is labor, with enough horse power and the right type of machinery that will enable him to do the greatest possible amount of work.

3. The planning of all the farm work so that every operation that is not definitely fixed as to time or season may be fitted in between the harvest period when every minute may be of special importance in producing or saving a crop.

4. The practice of letting live stock harvest crops and cede themselves so far as possible to the animals.

5. The use of a careful follow-up system to help in planning and executing the work from week to week and from day to day.

The labor required to produce grain and farm crops is required at relatively short period, hence we should select crops and so arrange them in the rotation that certain operations which must be performed at the same time will not interfere in the production of other crops. For instance, wherever possible, winter wheat should be included in the rotation, because the seedling time is in the fall when no other work is being done and the harvest also comes before the harvest of the spring grain.

One-fifth to one-fourth of the acreage of a farm should consist of some land from the standpoint of fertility, and second, from the standpoint of labor and that before the harvest of the spring grain.

The amount of labor that can be performed by one man depends largely on the number of horses and size of machinery he can handle to advantage. One man can often do the work of two by driving one and leading a team attached to another. Farmers should not hesitate to buy larger types of machinery because of high prices. The time saved by the use of large machinery has also doubled in value. Furthermore, the cost of increasing food production should be given a preference over the question of profit.

In order that a farmer may reap the best results from his labors, a large part of the farm work must be performed by machinery.

Sheds, tools and hauling equipment, should not be allowed to interfere with planting, harvesting and storing of crops.

All farmers practise the arrangement of work to a certain extent, but none have reached the stage where no more improvement is possible.

RECEIVING WAR CROSS

The patriotic spirit and devotion with which Canadian women have so far performed war work and made personal sacrifices has never been equalled in the history of any country. Mother, wife, sister, daughter, and ready mierable from the complaints and weaknesses which are so common to women, take the right temperature tonic for the womanly system.

If a woman is born down by pain and suffering, by nervousness or disease, apply Dr. Pierce's "Painless Prescription" should be taken. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid at most drug stores. Send to Dr. Pierce's Branch at Brantford, Ont., for a free trial sample.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been most satisfactory in liver and bowel troubles.

Windsor, Ont.—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a new wonder drug. I have used it about six years. I suffered from pain in my back trouble during which time I became all the more disabled. I would have to sit up all night in my bed. I doctored myself but did not get relief. The result of my ailment was that I could scarcely walk and was unable to work. I began taking the "Prescription." When I had taken two bottles it was much improved and my back pain was gone. I am now in better health than I ever did before taking this wonderful drug. I am now working again. —Mrs. Martha McLean, 4 Alfred St.

Feared Results

Or Their Brutality

Germans Expected Outbreaks on Part of Bruges Population

An inspection of numerous German posts in Belgium discloses that wherever the death penalty for offenses by civilians was exacted no sentence was passed on the spot. It was concluded that no German commander was willing to take an individual responsibility for such orders, possibly fearing consequences the like.

This was especially the case in Bruges, in addition to the reliable evidence it was testified to by Ad. Eeckem, one of the aldermen who attended the execution of Captain Fryatt, the "massacre" of which was known as the "Bruges Massacre." The aldermen said: "Capt. Fryatt bravely looked straight at his firing squad. An hour after his execution an order that he not be shown to the public was given. The aldermen said it was between 15,000 and 20,000 marks monthly were collected from citizens of Bruges as fines."

Food conditions during the German occupation of Belgium continued to worsen, not least, because the district is an agricultural one. There was no looting in the city before the Germans left. But there was no use for food, for everything had been requisitioned, even pianos, pictures and frying pans. The last company leaving the town destroyed everything the men could reach. They even broke windows with their rifle butts.

On Oct. 1, according to the aldermen, the Germans apparently feared the possibility of a rebellion, for orders were posted all over the town inviting the people to remain quiet and to make no demonstrations that would be dealt with by artillery fire. All residents were ordered to remain indoors from 6 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock in the morning. The Germans had noticed up to this time that the bridge was now underneath it, feverishly trying out a brick from one of the arches. At last he got it out and put it in place again, whereupon the charge was fired. He could hear the clamor of the circling airplane, the tapping of the machine gun and the crash of another bomb.

He quickly started the fuse and began to retrace his steps through the water. When far enough away from the bridge he climbed up the bank, hurried through the wood and field and waited. Soon he saw a red light in the distance. It ran along toward him and he climbed in. The next moment he saw a great red flash light in the woods and heard the roar of the airplane dropping its bombs.

The pilot pushed forward the throttle, the airplane rushed over the grass and then shot up in the air. Below lay the dry wood and the glittering water which is now covered by a hard blue line in the center section of the bridge was missing and the damaged train facing the gap could not pass."

The Lesser Expense

"I hear that you have brought your daughter an automobile. Pretty expensive game, isn't it?"

"No, it's a matter of economy. I figured that the car will keep her away from bridge parties."—Boston Transcript.

Industry is Delayed

Lack of Steel Holds Back Building of Ships

An Ottawa report states that in the early months of last spring, upon plans evolved by Hon. C. C. Ballantine, minister of marine and of the navy service, the government entered upon a program of expansion of shipbuilding, designed for the immediate future, to help supply the war time deficiency in tonnage, but also to lay the basis of a permanent mercantile fleet.

Standards plans were drawn up, yards established, contracts awarded and keels laid. Considerable progress has been made, but while there will be no lack of steel for shipbuilding, the industry has now reached a standstill for lack of steel. The supply has come from the United States, and it is not known to what extent of the demand has been answered for.

At the very inception of the program steps were taken to secure the requisite supply of steel plates till the 1st of July next. The allotment was about 80,000 tons and the department succeeded in drawing up plans upon such lines. Now at several of the yards, work is seriously impeded for want of plates. The deliveries are very much short of the proportion required.

The reason assigned for the delayed deliveries—and it is well understood here—is that the demands upon the American steel production are enormous and beyond control. According to the greatly enlarged war plane and the consequent increased requirements of the army of the States and the allies.

The situation has improved somewhat of late, but the operations are still back very considerably owing to the conditions which have developed.

Their Chance

Many ex-convicts have made good in the war, said Sir E. Ruggles-Bruce, chairman of the English prison commissioners.

One who had received three sentences of penal servitude, and whose past showed him to be a man of good character, enlisted in the forces in 1916. Invalided after service in the fighting line, he volunteered to save another man's life by giving his blood for transfusion.

Later, returning to the front, he won the M.M. and the D.C.M. His C.O. reported: "He is one of our best N.C.O.'s, and has rendered splendid service throughout, and that after three months in the hottest part of the line."

The saving farmer is a national asset. Canadian progress today in all lines attests magnificently to the splendid qualities of that that have been the foundation of our institutions.

The total return from field crops and animal produce, have been only possible because of the disposition to conserve the wonderful gifts of Providence.

Airmen Blow Up Bridge

Pilot Attracted Guard's Attention While Observer Started

A British aviator, Capt. Paul Bowsher, describing the destruction of a railway bridge behind the German lines, writes:

"A two-seater airplane was detailed for the work. After a survey of the neighborhood of the bridge, the two airmen flew on a moonlight night across the German lines until they arrived at the river over which the railway line passed. The pilot throttled the engine, swept down to the ground where the observer jumped out. The pilot put on the engine and climbed into the air again, while the observer ran into the wood and began to creep stealthily through it to the river. He arrived on the bank of the river a few hundred yards from the bridge.

"Wading waist deep in the water, he began to walk along as quietly as he could in the shadow of the trees to the bridge. Many guards, while the pilot was attacking the attention of two guards stationed at the bridge flying around and around a few hundred yards above it, and firing at the machine gun. It was about to pass stopped, and the men crowded to the windows to see what was happening. The airmen dropped a bomb on the bridge and the train. The observer, who had been creeping unnoticed up to the bridge was now underneath it, feverishly trying out a brick from one of the arches. At last he got it out and put it in place again, whereupon the charge was fired.

"It ran along toward him and he climbed in. The next moment he saw a great red flash light in the woods and heard the roar of the airplane dropping its bombs.

"The pilot pushed forward the throttle, the airplane rushed over the grass and then shot up in the air. Below lay the dry wood and the glittering water which is now covered by a hard blue line in the center section of the bridge was missing and the damaged train facing the gap could not pass."

It is just that Germany repair, as far as money can repair, the damage she has inflicted upon France and Flanders, of which Germany robbed her in 1871; and it would not be expedient to leave Germany any of the colonies of which she has been deprived by this war unless the citizens in those colonies consented by a free and untrammeled vote, to come again under German sovereignty.

It is just that she give to the allies from her power, which she has, the sum which she has lawlessly sunk at sea.

It is just that the cost of this reparation be made to fall as far as possible on the individuals of Germany, who are responsible for the conduct of the war rather than on the common people who have been coerced or deluded into giving it their support.

Therefore it would be just to take the property of Germany's Germany, to confiscate the property of the war lords including the kaiser, confiscate the Krupp works and all other munition factories, confiscate the landed property of Junker class, whose support the war would not and could not have been maintained, and use the proceeds of these confiscations in paying the damages due to Germany.

It would be just to split the great estates into small holdings and sell them to peasants on some adequate security that they would occupy and cultivate them. This would be just, and such a peasant occupation of the land would be the best practical guarantee against militarism in the future.

It would be just to dismantle the forts, reduce the fleet, and do whatever is necessary in reorganizing the army to give reasonable assurance that it would not and could not be again used in a war of conquest.

It would be just to bring to trial and condemn punishment to those who, in violation of the laws of war and of the explicit convention of the Hague signed by Germany, have been guilty of the crime of murder.

In short, it would be just to put Germany in the hands of a receiver, a guardian who would provide protection to the Belgian people and their neighbors from the men who have bankrupted their Fatherland and brought upon the civilized world this unparalleled tragedy.

It would be just to put an army of occupation in Germany, and these acts of justice were accomplished.

HOW GERMANY SHOULD REPAIR DAMAGE TO ALLIED COUNTRIES

ONLY WAY TO MAKE AMENDS FOR WRONGS DONE

The New York Outlook Suggests a Line of Action That Might Be Taken in Order to Secure Reparation for Some of the Loss Through the Ravages of the Enemy

Ship Losses Show

A Large Decrease

Sinkings by U-boats During September Lowest Since August, 1916

The British admiralty announces that British merchant tonnage losses during September totalled 152,000 tons gross; allied and neutral combined, 88,000, and the aggregate constitutes the lowest monthly sinkings since August, 1916, which is below the monthly average. The total losses for the three months ended September 30 were 893,000 tons, compared with 960,000 in the previous quarter, and so minor and trifling is the corresponding quarter of last year. The sinkings of steamships exceeding five hundred tons gross between the United Kingdom and overseas ports, excluding cross-channel traffic, was seven and a half million tons in September.

The agitation against the closing of the famous Cat and Fiddle, the highest in England, situated on the Cheshire and Derbyshire hills, has resulted in a long lease being entered into by the London general manager who proposes to rebuild the place and provide first-class rooms for motorists at take in 20 acres for shelter. The inn has been licensed for more than 100 years.

Ancient Brick Making

Art First Known in the District of Nineveh

The British forces in Mesopotamia are gradually pushing their march northward along the valley of the Tigris towards Mosul, the site of ancient Nineveh. Many scholars affirm that in this district that the art of brick making is its birthplace, that as it may, the people of this ancient land still make their bricks in the most primitive manner, just as the Assyrians and Babylonians did in the days of old.

They are fashioned of clay and dried or baked in the sun. There one can see factories on the banks of the Tigris, near Mosul. On the ground cast iron is used to reinforce the iron-jointed bricks left to dry and remain in the tropical sun. These Eastern builders take the clay and moisten it with water until it becomes workable, after which it is made into a thick paste. It is then placed in a wooden frame, without top or bottom, so that a uniform size may be obtained. The period of drying varies, but twenty to twenty-five days is generally sufficient. The clay is not quite fired and can be used. Such building material would not stand frost, but in the warm atmosphere of the East they last many years.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Candan fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright, and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes are hard on children, especially little babies' little stomachs. To keep right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They are easily digested, regulate the bowels, break colds and help baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Huns Pardon Belgians

All But Those Guilty of Common Crimes to Be Freed

Baron von Falkenhhausen, the governor-general of Belgium, according to an official telegram from Brussels, has pardoned all Belgians and neutral citizens interned in Belgium or Germany. A limited number of persons whose freedom would be undesirable while fighting continues will be released after the evacuation of Belgium.

New Shell Orders

Near Half Billion

Canada Has Produced to End of September 68 Million Shells

It is officially announced that up to September 15 Canada had produced 68,000,000 shells and 75,650,000 forgings.

The war authorities are making preparations as if there was no peace sight and orders on a large scale have been issued by the imperial munitions board. The orders for the coming year will run nearly half a billion dollars.

Night Air Patrols

By U. S. Aviators

System by Which American Flyers Keep Touch with Enemy

American aviators, by inaugurating night patrols along the Meuse, have attracted much attention among the airmen of other nations. Under the present plan the flyers are always subject to a call from the front, where observers or listeners report by wire when the motor of a German airplane is heard approaching.

As soon as one of these reports is received the searchlights begin sweeping the sky. The night patrols arrive at the same time. In event the German machine is located by the searchlights, the night American machines attack until the enemy is downed or takes his escape.

When the system was inaugurated, four aviators started, seeking any German machine that might be about. When a searchlight picks up an American machine a pre-arranged signal is given, eliminating the chance that the American might be shot down by his own men. When the airmen are shot down, they are bravely lit, so that they may return without trouble.

PEELS OFF A CORN WITHOUT ANY PAIN

It is magic, no, scientific—a wonderful combination discovered that you can peel off a tough old corn, even when the root of the ear is Puunam's Corn Extractor. It's a corker the way it loosens a corn; makes it peel right off in a solid lump without the slightest pain. Results are as good as gold, results and costs but a quarter. Sold everywhere.

Nish Has a Long And Varied History

Was Turkish Military Station for 300 Years

Among Serbian cities the little town of Nish has just been recaptured by the Serians, it is now surpassed in strategic importance by the capital of the country, Belgrade. It lies at a point where several of the Balkan peoples converge, and is the outlet for the line of Salonica branches of from the main railway between Belgrade and Constantinople. Before the war was the custom of the Turks to hold him captive to spend three months of the year in the little city on the banks of the Nishava, and it was to Nish that the Serbian government retired when Belgrade had finally occupied the autumn of 1915.

Like so many other towns in the Balkans, Nish is a place of very great antiquity. It was mentioned as an important place by Pliny the younger, and it was under the walls of Nish, the Naissus of the Romans, in the year A.D. 269, that the great battle was fought in which the Emperor Claudius and the army of the Goths. Two hundred years later came the invasion of the Huns, and in the centuries that followed Nish shared to the full in all the warfare which swept back and forth across the Balkans, until final silence created by the Ottoman flood in the fifteenth century.

It was in 1375 that the Turks first captured Nish from the Serians. In 1443 the town was taken by Hungarians under Hunyadi, and the Serians under George Brankovich retook it, but 12 years later, it came under the Turkish dominion again and remained for more than 300 years, the capital of the greatest Turkish military stations on the road between Hungary and Constantinople.

Once a Turkish possession, Nish, like all surrounding cities, experienced the full brunt of the wretched perennial state of war which existed between Turkey and Austria. It changed hands twice, but the Austrians were held off for long, and when the Serians at the beginning of the nineteenth century, having successfully risen against their Ottoman oppressors and swept them from the country, made strong efforts to capture Nish, they were repulsed with great loss. It was not until the Russo-Turkish war in 1877 that the city finally came into the hands of the Serians. By the treaty of San Stefano Serbia was confirmed in its possession.

To what extent the little town has suffered by the Austrian occupation, it is impossible to say. In the early days of the war, Mr. Leard, an American, actually captured the city, its accommodation was sadly overtaxed by the tremendous influx from Belgrade. No less than 30,000 people fled before the martial advance and settled in such a haphazard mode. Fifty visitors would have severely overtaxed the hotel accommodations of the Nish of those days and the effect of an invasion of 30,000 may be better imagined than described.

On his visit to the city this time one writer says: "Having obtained excellent sleeping accommodations—the latter in a series of apartments among the several salient houses of the city. The hubub emanating therefrom beggars description, and the memory of the results is one which will never be forgotten." Some of the salient houses in nuffi were among the diners, and the whole arrangement seemed almost "Gibertian." It rather reminds one in fact of that South American capital which is a collection of the doors of its jail. "A person not in by 6 o'clock will be locked out."

Bank View of Crops

Returns are Satisfactory in Quality and Yield

The Monthly Commercial Letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in its summary of the business in Canada, thus sets out the conditions of crop and agriculture generally:

"It is difficult to arrive at a definite conclusion as to the future of the crop. It is now apparent, however, that it will considerably exceed the estimates formed during the bad weather of July and the early part of August, and that the demand for farm help in practically every part of the Dominion, and by the renewal of orders for general merchandise and for articles that have been put up for necessities which had been cancelled because of the anticipated failure of the crops. The keenest demand exists in the wheat districts of the prairies. Considering the particular conditions which have prevailed, the returns are satisfactory in both quality and yield."

The rains materially improved the outlook for fodder and root crops. New Brunswick, with all kinds of new crops, will have a large surplus of potatoes. Fodder and roots in Ontario, and pasture in the southern districts of the western provinces, have recovered substantially from the unrelenting weather conditions during July and the selling of unfinished stock will thus be checked. At Calgary the volume of cattle marketed at the close of August was 10 per cent greater than in the previous year, and no serious reduction in prices took place. Where feed is plentiful the number of livestock being marketed is either normal or, slightly greater than a year ago. When three-year-old steers bring $170 each, as they did in Lloydminster, Sask., late in August, there can be little doubt as to the future of the cattle industry on the prairies. Our railway system carried 1,363 cars of cattle in 1917 as compared with 7,241 in 1916, an increase of 57 per cent, while the increase in western dairy produce shipped was 15 per cent."

Brave Children

Cowardly Boche Cannot Frighten Them

The English, French and Belgian children have proved themselves worthy sons and daughters in spite of the bombs and airplane raids and all the other horrors that Germany has visited upon their countries, they have gone to school, helped in every way to earn a coat and a home quite as if nothing were happening.

The visit of submarines to American waters has shown the equally brave fighting spirit of the Canadian United States sailors. One little girl, Anita Clement, obeyed orders like a soldier when the boats were lowered, and in the humble days that followed, afraid of the sea water, she made no complaint and kept up the spirits of the whole party.

The Boche cannot even frighten the children with their cowardly methods. All the allied nations' children, women and men stand together to win this war.

Growing Old Together

THIS aged couple, mellowed by time and the experiences of life, are happily growing old together.

They are happy because they are healthy. Life is still full of interest to them, and they are wide awake to new ideas.

These are the kind of old people that everybody likes. For, in spite of the years, they are cheerful and optimistic.

It is only natural that the blood should get thin and vitality wane as age advances, but there are ways of keeping up the quality of the blood and maintaining health and vigor.

Here is another interesting letter. This time from a lady:

Mr. Joseph Lalonde, Hydro Glen, Ont. writes: "I have to thank you very much for your kind words concerning my Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills. I was so run down and nervous last summer that I was in bed most of the time. I have also been troubled with my kidneys for over twenty years and tried many different medicines, but I could not get permanent result, but I can say that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills have made me feel quite different. I am now in full health again and although I am now 76 years old, I feel better than I did when I was 22 years old."

"I know Mr. Joseph Lalonde, the author of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and am cured. Had I not obtained this treatment I would not be in the position I am now. At eighty-one I have an energy which means go, and I am writing this letter so that others may benefit by my prolonging their health and strength by using this great medicine."

Foch Gives Credit To British Premier

Says to Lloyd George Belongs Much of Praise for the Victories

Marshal Foch, generalissimo of the French army, has given the congratulations of David Lloyd George on his sixty-seventh birthday on October 2, gave the British premier credit for placing him in supreme command, adding that the text of commands made public by the British bureau of information.

The message from Lloyd George reads:

"Please accept my sincere congratulations on your birthday. If ever a particular pleasure in addressing you at the moment when the allied armies under your direction are making so formidable a change in the course of the war, and after learning whether I should the man admiring your marvelous skill as a commander or your indomitable courage and the unquenchable faith in victory or defeat."

Marshal Foch replied: "I am greatly touched by your congratulations and thank you sincerely. I do not forget that it is to your insistence that I have been given the position which I occupy today. The sign of the glorious days awaiting our armies is to be found in the perfect unity which exists now between all the allied forces."

To Help Production

The Contractor Idea as Applied to Farming Is a Good One

Many a class of business men's committee in the towns and cities of Canada could aid greatly in the production on the farms if they would adopt the "tractor and contractor" idea, which has been installed in Ontario and adopted in Chatham.

The contractor idea as applied to farming is simply this: A club of business men in a town form a little company with capital perhaps of $10,000. They buy a tractor at a cost of $1,000, and undertake to plow idle land or reclaim land on a contract. They employ a man who has been used to handling labor and getting things done. The war has altered the activities of many such men. Railways, contracting, bridge building and such work have been greatly limited by reason of the demands of the war upon capital, upon labor and upon other energies of the people.

Montreal, Mr. J. P. Anglin, the well known engineer and building contractor, has undertaken a big contract to plow idle acreage near Montreal, and a syndicate of business men in that city have joined him.

These examples might well be followed throughout Canada.

Damaged by British Guns
Inspection of the city of Ostend shows that British shells did terrible damage to everything and naval establishments, but did not harm the residential or business sections to any extent. The only money to be found there and in other liberated Belgian cities is German. Many of the smaller children speak English in Ostend, use German as their own language. The enemy apparently went out of his way to teach his tongue to these children.

Gained Victoria Cross

Three War Heroes Honored After Death—One Piper Did Brave Deeds

Five Victoria Crosses have been awarded, the recipients of three of which have been killed. The most thrilling account accompanies the award to Piper James Richardson, of Manitoba.

Prior to the attack he obtained permission to play a solo piece, "Over the Top." As the company approached its objective, it was held up by a very strong wire and came under an intense fire, which caused heavy casualties and which momentarily demoralized the formation. Richardson, realizing the situation, strode up and down with the greatest coolness. The effect was instantaneous. Inspired by his example, the others followed, surmounting the obstacle with such fury and determination that the obstacle was overcome, and the position captured.

Later, after participating in house-to-house fighting, he led his company back wounded, comrades and prisoners. After proceeding two miles behind, he remembered that he had left his pipe behind. Although strongly urged to return for it, he refused, saying he had no time to recover his pipe. He was noisy enough and is accordingly presumed dead, through lapse of time.

Boy's Bad Break

Another dignified youth got a little shoddy and other difficulties, and ended at the house of a new acquaintance, and the little fellow who answered the door said that his mother was out. The dignified lad took out a cigarette and said, "I'm sorry to let the istic shaggy bluster to the ground. Please," he said, "you dropped one of your cigarettes."—Postscript.

Cuticura Heals Pimples On Face

That Itched and Burned Scratched Constantly.
"I had pimples and blackheads on my face which were caused by the blood. They came to a head and were hard and red causing disfigurement for the time being. They itched and burned so much that I constantly scratched and made them worse."

"I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and completely healed." (Signed) Miss Josephine A. Wemore, 35 Sheriff St., St. John, N. B., Aug. 10, 1917.

For Free Sample Each by Mail address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. A, Boston, U. S. A." Sold everywhere.

India's Fine Response

To the War Loan
Will Stand by England Through Thick and Thin

In a country where eloquence and fluency of speech come naturally to most of the young people, Judith has firmly attested her love of the country appeal which he made for support for the government's war loan and man power proposals at a recent durbar at which 300 of the nobility were present.

"The time," said his highness, "is not for words nor for promises, but for deeds and, owing to the collapse of Russia, owing to Germany, we have been able to appeal to India owing to every British citizen, old or young, even including the women of the country, being engaged in defending the rights of the weak against the powerful. Now, in a troublous time, we must stand by our friends, and we have done so, and we shall do so, to India, calling upon India to do its duty and save its Empire and home from the invader, who is avaricious, rapacious and barbarous."

It has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada, where in previous seasons India has attacked them. Among the many that have returned to full health is Miss Irene Davies, Port Credit, Ont., who will Dr. Wimbley's Pink Pills as an unpassed triumph. Through the use of this medicine alone, all the evil effects of this disease have been removed.

Sugar is now practically on the free list in Canada, practi-

We understand some of the curlers were hostile at the delvy in begining curling but didn't think any of them would go so far as to smash the office windows.

Coleman was thronged with visitors for the Christmas festivities, and quite a number from here were visitors at outside points.

Thieves rifled the Drug Store on Friday night securing a small amount of cash, and all the flu alleviatives in stock and other things perhaps.

The curling club will hold a meeting in the rink on Monday evening, Dec. 30. As skips will be chosen and rinks organized as far as possible at this meeting it is very desirable that all intending players should be present.

Would the relatives of soldiers who are on their way home kindly inform Mr. Gower or Mr. Ford of the date of their arrival here, in order to give the people an opportunity of welcoming them home. At present there is no way of knowing the date of a soldier's return, and a number of heroes have already returned without any recognition at all on our part.

Memorial Service For Sergt. Williams

A memorial service for Quartermaster Sergeant John Ernest Williams was held in St. Albans Church on Sunday evening, Rev.
H. Clay officiating. Sergt. E.
Williams died in a hospital at Seaford, Sussex, England on November 5th, 1918, after 4 hours with influenza. He had been in France two years and was wounded once slightly,
and suffered from shell shock,
for which reason he was retained in England. The deceased was a well known hockey and baseball player, a member of the fire brigade and followed the occupation of painter in Coleman. His sudden demise was a serious shock to his mother, Mrs. John Hatfield, a brother, James Herbert, is still in France. Alfred Hatfield, a step-brother, was in England at the time on sick leave from the front, and took charge of the funeral.
